Tickertape Productions

With short notice Tickertape stepped in and managed a full day's filming with quiet authority and a calmness that helped to relax all of the staff members involved. Our company had to produce a film at short notice demonstrating a new product to help with a commercial presentation, and the team at Tickertape handled the brief serenely and efficiently.

Rosie second guessed our needs and her suggestions helped produce a video that not only helped win over the client and secure the account, but also resulted in the video being used by our client's sale-force for further pitching.

I am sure we will use Tickertape again and have recommended their services to colleagues in other companies looking to stimulate their presentations.
